Understanding the Progress Report

This booklet provides information about the progress report. You may get more information on our website www.pacsd.ca under the tab "Our Students, Our Parents" or phone the office at (306) 953-7500 and speak to your principal.

Focus on Strands

The curricula are not written with the intent that teachers teach or assess each outcome one at a time and then move on to the next. A teacher can assess a student's knowledge (i.e., factual, conceptual, procedural, metacognitive) as expresses in each outcome a number of times in a number of ways. All of these times and ways contribute to the overall assessment of the student's ability to demonstrate they know, understand and can do what is expected of them in the outcomes.

In the Curriculum, there is an expected set of skills and knowledge that have been strategically and consciously identified in the outcomes and accompanying indicators. In the past, curricula often had those skills identifies separately through isolated objectives. In the renewed curricula, we have integrated skill and knowledge development.

Assessing by Strands

By using strands to assess student learning, students have multiple opportunities to demonstrate their learning in a particular area through the development of a group of related outcomes.

The outcomes describe what a student needs to know, understand, and be able to demonstrate for each grade level.

Our Progress Report informs three areas of student development:

1. Personal and Social Growth
2. Factors Affecting Achievement
3. Curriculum (Mathematics, English Language Arts, Visual Arts, etc.)
